The Corn Crops of the United States Falls Considerably Short According to Government Experts

A Washington dispatch says:—The loss of 3,000,000 bushels of corn, the nation's greatest farm crop, resulted from the great damage wrought by the drought and other conditions since July 1, the government's agricultural experts estimated today in the August crop report.

The total production of two billion six hundred and seventy-two million bushels of corn is predicted. This is four hundred and fifty two million bushels less than last year's crop. The general condition of corn is placed at 75.8 per cent normal, compared with 86.9 on July 1. Kansas was hit the hardest. The condition there has been reduced from 8 per cent for July to 30 per cent on August 1. Oklahoma came next with a condition of 44 against 87 in July. Nebraska reported 67, against 91 July 1. These three states have almost nineteen per cent of their total area planted to corn this year.

ARIZONA NEWS OF INTEREST

Newsy Notes From All Over Arizona
Carefully Condensed for The Prospector Readers

That the movement recently initiated among the cattlemen of Camp Wood and adjacent range country, to relieve that region of mountain lions and lobo wolves by the offering of a big bounty for each animal killed, is regarded with much interest and satisfaction, was learned recently, when several hunters were found getting ready to go into that country to begin their crusade on these destructive animals.

According to friends of First Sergeant Sam Kinney of A troop, Ninth cavalry, at Douglas, the popular sergeant's rabbit foot is still working. Luck came his way strong recently when he received word that he had fallen heir to considerable property.

Auditors, spoken of among railroad men as "train riders," are now on all trains operated in Arizona. They have been detailed to collect information which will be used in fighting the three-cent fare law and any reductions in rates that may be ordered by the state corporation commission or interstate commerce commission.

After a burro buyer at the Epoca stockyard at Tucson had collected a carload of the animals to be shipped clear to Lewiston, Maine, the local demand suddenly got strong and he turned around and sold them out again to Tucson buyers. He still has a few left, but he will not attempt to ship them to Maine.

Owing to so many of the Mexicans using mining candlesticks for weapons the sheriff's office has issued a notice cautioning against the men keeping candlesticks on or near them after they leave the mines. The candlesticks will be confiscated as concealed weapons in Mesquite.

A flow of artesian water from the second strata of water-bearing gravel has been developed on the Canon ranch of L. H. Manning near Tucson, at a depth of 130 feet. The water under pressure rises to within 20 feet of the surface, rendering pumping with power cheap and convenient.

While caught in the crush in front of one of the shows at the carnival grounds at Douglas, Tuesday night, Herman Berkhauser, clerk at the International hotel was robbed by a negro woman of his pocketbook, which contained several dollars and a note. He saw the woman get the money and seized her by the arm but lost track of her when several negro men forced themselves between.

A movement is on foot among the printers of Douglas and Bisbee to organize a branch of the International Typographical union. There are not enough printers in either city to organize the two places separately, but there are a sufficient number in both places to make a good union. C. M. Fielder, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who is organizing craftsmen, is in Bisbee to work up that end of the proposition, having already been assured that the printers of Douglas are agreed.

Pascual Rivers and Luis Moreno were sentenced each to three months in jail by Justice Comstock in Tucson on a charge of stealing a saddle from a blacksmith shop.

WORRIED OVER DEATH OF PARTNER

Tombstone Pioneer Dies Suddenly After Brooding Over Death of His Mining Partner

JOE HAGAN DIES FROM HEART FAILURE

This morning while walking along 6th street, between S. Ford and Fremont, Joe Hagan, an old pioneer of Tombstone, who has lived here many years, suddenly felt dead, having been stricken with heart failure.

It is thought that the deceased, ever since the death of his partner, Louis Lombardi, who was killed in a cave-in the first part of last week, has been brooding and grieving over the affair, with the result that it alarmed his friends. He was very melancholy and downcast, all hastening the end, which came suddenly this morning without warning.

Joe Hagan was an old pioneer of Tombstone and a miner, which occupation he has followed continuously ever since his residence here. As a partner in a lease with Louis Lombardi he had worked for quite a while with him. But when his partner was accidentally killed last week in a cave-in, the affair seemed to have depressed him so as to leave him physically dejected which caused heart failure, and subsequent death.

An inquest was held today and the jury will bring in its verdict this evening.

Mrs. R. Ulen, sister of the deceased, a resident of San Francisco, was notified this morning and will leave that place for this city tonight. Funeral arrangements are withheld awaiting her arrival.

Text Books for Arizona Schools are Expected to be Available by September

The free text books for the use of the pupils in the schools of Arizona have begun to arrive in Phoenix already, indicating that there will be no trouble in getting the full supply here by the time the schools open in September. This is the first year of the application of the free text book law to the schools of the state. Although the law was passed by the first legislature, it was passed at such a time that there remained in that year not sufficient time for the many details in installing the system, to be completed, and hence the board of education that year unanimously agreed to defer installing the books until this year.

Popular Arizona Tepary Bean Will be Grown in California

The new tepary bean which was introduced this year by the Arizona experimental station has been introduced into California by Dr. George P. Clements, of the Glenavon district, near Riverside, Dr. Clements secured the seed from Tucson and already has raised his crop.

Dr. Clements first read of the tepary bean in the Literary Digest, which told of the rediscovery of a food staple that is believed to have come down from earliest Aztec days and which has been perpetuated by the Spaniards in Arizona, forming one of their most important articles of diet. He wrote to R. W. Clothier, head of the Tucson experimental station, requesting some of the beans. He received in reply just half a dozen beans, but was told that he might get from a native a larger supply. He later received ten pounds of seed.

Many Improvements at Fort Huachuca--Brigade Post for Cochise in Sight

Fort Huachuca is to be a brigade post. Final assurance of this was made known yesterday. Ever since the railroad line was extended it has been generally reported that the post would be designated as a brigade headquarters, but it was not until the visit of Secretary of War Garrison that the matter was definitely decided upon.

Final action has now been taken by the war department.

The quartermaster at the fort has received instructions from the war department to prepare blue prints of the physical equipment necessary for a brigade post. And is preparing this data.

The designation of Fort Huachuca as a brigade post will mean that three regiments, numbering 3500 officers and men, will be permanently quartered there. The pay roll alone, exclusive of the large quantity of supplies needed, will run into thousands of dollars a month.
